NOT YET EDUCATED

The Richmond Traffic Safety Council is making a campaign, not alone for membership, but to make the streets safe for drivers and pedestrians. It is a commendable move and one which should have the undivided and enthusiastic support of every citizen in all its phases.

The men who are the guiding spirits of the organization are generously giving their time to the cause, but I wonder when they walk or drive down the street if they do not get somewhat discouraged?

One of the admonitions handed out to us is not to jaywalk. It would seem that the very people who would not be guilty of this reprehensible practice would be garage-men, yet when driving down Macdonald avenue the other day in the rain, two of them cut across the street in front of me in the middle of the block, a woman stepped out from the side of a machine, and a mother and child went nonchalantly over the thoroughfare without troubling to go down to the corner.

After disembarking from my jeep, I attempted to cross the street (at a corner) and was nearly run down by a driver who had slowed down to about 45 miles at the intersection. The wind created by the swift passage of the car lifted my chapeau from my venerable head.

No Narcotics Were Found In Capsules

The capsules found in the car of Mrs. Ada "Charley" Shannon, killed when her car crashed into an overturned pipeline trailer on Tank Farm Hill the morning of February 6th, did not contain narcotics of any kind.

A search of the car, which had been placed in a local garage, was directed by Chief of Police L. E. Jones. It revealed a tobacco can wrapped in a roll of tissue, which was stuffed in a sack. In the can were several capsules, containing a white substance.

Narcotic agents immediately took the capsules and had them analyzed with the result that any theory that might have been entertained was conclusively exploded.

Three Building Permits Issued

Three building permits were issued yesterday by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley. Joe Fara was granted permission to build a one-story frame store building on the west side of San Pablo avenue, between Sacramento and Panama avenues, at a cost of $1600.

Other permits issued were to Dr. A. Schultz to remodel a store building at 628 Macdonald avenue at a cost of $750; and C. L. Thies, who will remodel one room of a cottage belonging to Mrs. Fred Harrington at 2264 Garvin avenue, at a cost of $80.

DAVID C. GRAY, following a brief illness, has returned to his duties as dean of sophomore boys in the Richmond Union high school.

SLAYING OF FOUR CAUSE OF UPRISING

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 14.—UP—Marching, shouting crowds of inflamed patriots went through this beautiful tropical capital tonight, burning and pillaging, indignant at the slaughter by government troops today of four demonstrators at Plaza Bolivar.

Angry mobs, which saw their comrades fall before a fusillade from the balconies of the government palace, marched through the streets shouting demands for justice and liberty and threatening further serious disorders.

The shooting occurred during a demonstration at Plaza Bolivar, facing the government palace. The demonstration was called in sympathy with the newspapers of Venezuela, which recently went on strike and suspended publication in protest against new censorship rules, which also say are merely a continuation of the "press gag" system set up by the late Juan Vicente Gomez, iron-fisted dictator.

As the mob surged toward the palace—on whose balconies were scores of armed soldiers—the order to fire was given. Four demonstrators were killed outright. Many others fell wounded. The mob scattered.

Palace gates were opened immediately and truck loads of troops poured out to take strategic stations throughout the city.

A few demonstrators returned to the beautiful plaza, to look after their dead and wounded. "DOWN WITH GALAVIS" they returned to their comrades and renewed the demonstration—this time mainly against Governor Galavis, who issued the order curtailing freedom of the press. With the blood (Continued on page 8)

Student Pug Wins Eight Of 10 Rounds

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—Phil Brubaker, newest candidate for "white hope" ranks of heavyweight fighters, smashed out a ten-round decision over King Levinsky at Dreamland auditorium tonight.

Brubaker won eight of the 10 rounds, tiring at the close to permit the former Chicago fish peddler to take the closing cantos. The former College of Pacific student for the ministry absorbed all the wild right hand punches the King could throw, outjabbed him and sent him down for no count twice during the battle.

It was the first time the Dinuba boy had gone the 10-round route, and he failed to hold his pace as Levinsky weathered an early beating to come back with a vicious closing attack.

Damage Action Against Kennel Club Dropped

MARTINEZ, Feb. 14.—Schooled to go to trial in superior court here on February 25, the $25,075 damage suit filed by Charles Sibbering against the El Cerrito Kennel Club and John Jerome was dismissed without prejudice today by Sibbering's attorney.

The dismissal without prejudice does not bar the plaintiff from filing suit again.

Sibbering claimed in his action that December 3, 1934, while a patron at the El Cerrito track he was beaten and choked by Jerome and forced to leave the track. He states he is a man of but 115 pounds while Jerome weighs 260 pounds. The $75 was asked for asserted loss of his watch.

The 12-30 Club held a public whist party last night at the Civic Center club. The evening was spent in playing cards after which refreshments were served.

Snow, Quakes Dust Storms Scourge Nation

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Snow, earthquakes, and dust storms scourged the nation Friday and winter stretched an icy and to buffet planes and ships at sea. Highways were blocked by snow and sleet in many sections of the country, and on the Ohio river an ice jam broke, menacing the lives of eight government workers marooned on a houseboat.

The storm spread far out into both oceans.

Off the coast of Oregon the British freighter, Trellisick, with 30 aboard, was in distress. Two Coast Guard cutters put out to her assistance.

A fishing vessel was reported sinking off Massachusetts. Coast Guard cutters, dodging through shifting ice floes, fought to get to the vessel. The pilots were afraid, however, that the craft might go down before they could get to her.

Even the fast flying boat, the China Clipper—1000 miles out over the Pacific—could not escape the storm. She ran into headwinds en route to Hawaii and had to turn back to California.

Snow and sleet fell across New York, New Jersey, New England, and parts of Pennsylvania on a mile-an-hour wind. Highways and that section were shrouded with ice. Airplanes were grounded and (Continued on page 4)

New Party Leaders

A NEW political group seen as the third party of the future is being fostered in Madison, Wis., by the La Follette brothers, Senator Robert, left, and Governor Phillip, right, sons of the late Senator "Fighting Bob". Built around the Farm-Labor Federation of Wisconsin, the new party is expected to reach full bloom in the 1940 presidential election.

Suit Is Like King Of France And Men

MARTINEZ, Feb. 14.—Like the King of France, who marched his soldiers up the hill and right down again, a suit filed late this afternoon marched into court and will march right out again tomorrow.

The action was brought against Sheriff John A. Miller for the return of a teletype machine, seized by the district attorney's office in a raid on the Rancho San Pablo last October. The plaintiffs, it was alleged, operate under the firm name of Kreling and Cohen, and they assert a claim of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, owner of the machine, was transferred to them.

The allegation is set forth that the sheriff now unlawfully holds possession of the teletype and refused demands to turn it over to them.

At the time of the raid the district attorney's office claimed that the machine was being used in a race outfit where bets upon horses and dogs were allegedly placed and results were teletyped directly from the race track to the Rancho. On the other hand the Kreling and Cohen users of like machines claim that they furnish all kinds of news of general interest including results from race tracks.

The suit today asks judgment of $700, if the machine is not returned. From unofficial sources it was learned tonight that the attorney in San Francisco, who represents the plaintiffs, announced that he had been misinformed as to the facts and that as Sheriff Miller had nothing to do with the seizure of the equipment, the action against him would be dismissed tomorrow.

Merced City In Danger Of Inundation

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Murky flood waters surged over more than 20,000 acres of fertile San Joaquin valley land Friday, isolating towns, threatening the city of Merced, inundating highways and causing uncalculated damage.

Hundreds of volunteer workers were mobilized to stem the tide of overflow as run-off waters from a four-day rain raged down from the Sierra Nevada foothills and broke through the banks of numerous valley creeks and rivers.

Schools were closed in many localities and business in general was slowed to a virtual standstill as traffic became paralyzed in many rural sections.

MERCED HARDEST HIT—Merced was hardest hit. Twenty square blocks of its residential district were flooded, and the rising waters were approaching the business district.

The Bears, Mariposa and Owens creeks had burst their banks. Tule, Planada and La Grana were almost completely inundated. Six miles south of Merced at Lindgard, a lake a half mile long, issued, whitening an important county thoroughfare.

At Clovis, Fresno county, an overflow of Dry Creek swamped more than 100 acres blocking the main highway to Fresno and completely surrounding the Fresno vineyard (Continued on page 3)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 14.—UP—All passengers and crew of a cabin cruiser—afire off Miami beach—were rescued today, the Coast Guard reported. It was believed eight or 10 persons were aboard.

Passengers and crew of the burning 35-foot craft jumped into the ocean and swam to a fishing boat sent to the scene by a Coast Guard seaplane, piloted by Lieutenant G. H. Bowerman.

The fishing craft took the rescued to shore.

SABOTAGE IS CHARGED BY PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—UP—Frido W. Kessler, president of the Rocket Airplane Corporation of America, tonight revealed a plot to blow up the Rocket mail plane at Greenwood Lake last Sunday which might have resulted in killing several people. Sabotage, he said, prevented the Rocket from flying, he said.

Kessler said all the fuel pipes had been twisted at right angles in the Rocket and that only "a miracle" prevented the powerful fuel mixture of liquid oxygen from exploding. He blamed the sabotage on a mechanic who reportedly confessed.

MECHANIC CONFESSES—Kessler said the mechanic waited until Saturday night, after the Rocket had been sealed, then tore open the aluminum sides, twisted the fuel pipes and cut the oxygen pipe into the combustion chamber.

Two attempts to launch the Rocket on Sunday, in a new aerial experiment, ended in a fix of time and smoke. Only the gasoline, alcohol and hydrogen burned because the liquid oxygen pipe froze where it had been cut. Had the liquid poured into the remaining mixture the resultant explosion might have killed the nearest five or six people besides destroying the plane, Kessler said.

"This mechanic was jealous," Kessler said. "He had a part in constructing the Rocket designed by Dr. Alexander Klemin of the Guggenheim Institute of Aeronautics." (Continued on page 4)

Auto Fleet Of Sheriff To Be Renewed

MARTINEZ, Feb. 14.—Stating that he intends to keep his equipment in the best possible condition, so that his office will have the best facilities for police work, Sheriff John A. Miller today announced a policy of acquiring new automobiles every 15 months.

The automobiles will be purchased personally by the sheriff. He has already purchased one new automobile, replacing the one used by Deputy Sheriff Louis Rampoldi, and says he hopes to have all new automobiles by April 1.

"We want no undependable automobiles, or automobiles in need of repair," the sheriff said. "We use our automobiles awfully hard and we can't afford the risk of breakdowns."

Miller said: "It is our plan to acquire new automobiles for our office every fifteen months. Our present cars have given us wonderful service, but with our patrol system we cannot risk having a car go bad on us while on an important assignment. The taxpayers pay us money, we seek to conscientiously place them the best service that we possibly can, and in that way keep the efficiency of the office on its present high level."

COACH SAYS
BEARS TO WIN
OVER OREGON

BERKELEY, Feb. 14.—"California should defeat Oregon's swimming team by a close score."

Not the Oregon coach speaking, as you might expect (all coaches are funny that way), but Al Dowden, intercollegiate swimmer of the Golden Bears, who has Saturday's intercollegiate swimming meet with the Webfoots all figured out—in his favor.

If the Bears knock over the Oregonians Saturday, it may be the first defeat inflicted by a collegiate dual meet opponent since H. S. "Mike" Hoyman took over the coaching reins at Eugene in 1934. Last year he piloted the Oregon paddlers to a smashing victory in the northern division conference meet. They scored 61 points, claiming every first place, with Washington a poor second with 26 points.

The Bears' Saturday engagement with the northern team is set for 2:30 o'clock at the California pool. The meet will be California's first intercollegiate contest of the season, although they have defeated the Olympic and Athens clubs.

Coach Dowden today named a tentative lineup as follows:

Relay—George Lawrence, Roy Sims, Captain Weldon Smith and Bud Reiman, Jim Elliott and Bill Fromme, alternates.

Brace stroke—Paul Collins and Tom Kent.

Back stroke—Slem and Harold Heinke.

50-yard—Lawrence and Fromme, Shields, alternates.

440—Jack Dozier and Louis DeLuca, Harold Holton, alternates.

110—Slem and Reiman, Capt. Smith, alternates.

Divings—Jim Farquhar and Danny Kohns, Ed Unger, alternates.

220—Dozier, Captain Smith and Holton, DeLuca, alternates.

440—Dozier, Slem, Lawrence and Reiman.

BOXING TEAM TO MEET THE CAL AGGIES

BERKELEY, Feb. 14.—Opening the 1936 collegiate campaign away from home, the University of California boxing team will travel to Davis this weekend to meet the Cal Aggies Friday evening in a full program of intercollegiate bouts.

The matches will mark the debut of Perry Thomas, blocking half-back of the 1935 Bear varsity, as a heavyweight boxer. Thomas is a novice, but shows considerable promise, according to Coach Ed Neim.

The Bears, young and green for the most part, will go into the matches with only four veterans in the lineup: Dick Derr, lightweight; Dick Smith, 165 pounds; Joe DeRis, a 165-pounder who has been out of varsity competition for two seasons; and Dick Francis, lightweight.

The Bears will be without the services of two veterans, Andy Wallstrom, welterweight, and Captain George Thurston, lightweight. Wallstrom is nursing a sprained ankle, while Captain Thurston has not yet recovered from the effects of the flu which caused him to forfeit in the finals of the recent P. A. tourney in San Francisco.

Following are the lineups in the different classes:

TROUNCING IS ADMINISTERED TO CARDINALS

BERKELEY, Feb. 14.—The University of California's basketball team found the basket from all corners of the court tonight and played a practical floor game to roll up a 63-30 victory over the division leader, Stanford. The Bears, making good the "flax" that has for many years kept the Cardinals on the short end of the California series, started fast and held a 26-17 lead at half time.

Ray Olson, California captain, was the individual star of the contest, storming up and down the floor to score 17 points and virtually bringing Stanford to a standstill. Hank Luisetti, Stanford's flashy forward and leading scorer in the Conference, out-distanced his teammates to tally 15 points, most of which necessarily were made from mid-court.

The Santa Fe railroad barge which was driven ashore near the municipal tunnel during the storm Wednesday was placed back in service yesterday after minor repairs. It was disclosed that only leaks of a minor nature were caused by the waves pounding the barge again in the beach.

The tugboat Sea Lion from San Francisco pulled the boat from the beach where it had remained for 12 hours after being leached by the storm.

TWO VICTORIES

HIGH QUINTETS

Richmond high school court artists added another scalp to their list yesterday afternoon by taking the Berkeley high five into camp by a close 30-23 score. With Bogler leading the attack and finding the basket for 14 points and McLaughlin coming through with eight tallies, the local boys beat off the visitors' attack and hung up the coveted victory over the Berkeley invaders.

Berkeley's Samuelson, forward, made a bid for high scoring honors with a total of 13 points and Allen Machetta, guard, helped out with nine counters.

The Richmond B team, not to be outdone by the varsity, administered a 33-13 drubbing to Berkeley's second team. The locals had little trouble and scored almost as well, leading throughout the game.

Bill Gilhooley
On Hockey Team

CALGARY, Alta., Feb. 14.—UP—The Seattle Seahawks, driving toward a Northwest hockey league title, today signed Bill Gilhooley, fast right-winger, from Regina to replace Peaches Lyon.

The recruit is a brother of Dave Gilhooley, Seattle defenseman. Lyon injured his knee severely in a game at Portland last week. Seattle now leads the league by a narrow margin.

China Clipper
Is Landed At Alameda Base

ALAMEDA, Feb. 14.—UP—Captain Edwin C. Musick, ace pilot for Pan American Airways, today brought the China Clipper back to her Alameda base, 29 hours after she had bucked her way through stormy skies on an attempted flight to Honolulu.

It was the second time in as many flights that Musick, with more than 1,000,000 miles flying experience, had ordered the huge four-motored plane to turn back.

MERCED CITY IN DANGER OF INUNDATION

A lake more than 100 yards in diameter.
Workers from nearby CCC camps were called to aid more than a dozen motorists reportedly marooned on the highway overnight.

AT DANGER MARK
Other rivers and creeks, including St. John's river, Yokot creek, Tule River, Warham Creek and Kaweah river were reportedly at danger mark. Overflows resulted further general overflows unless torrential rains which have been sweeping the uplands give way to clearing weather.

Meanwhile, rivers and creeks in the Sacramento valley reached high marks, and were rising steadily as hundreds of tributary streams of Northern California fed the main arteries with vast amounts of water. The Sacramento river was 23 feet and rising steadily. Flood stage is 28 feet.

NEW STORM BREWING
Gales which forced the return of the China Clipper after it had negotiated half the distance from Alameda to Honolulu were to bring a new storm Saturday and probably Sunday, according to the Weather Bureau. The bureau predicted further heavy rains over the week-end.

WARNINGS POSTED
Storm warnings were posted along the Oregon and California coasts, warning shippers to exert extreme caution. The Trillissick, British freighter, was making her way back to port after being partially disabled in the severe storm Thursday.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE
The San Francisco bay region metropolitan area experienced considerable damage. Twenty blocks were flooded in the Oakland residential district in the vicinity of 73rd avenue. Basements and yards were flooded. Traffic in many sections was nearly stopped as highways were covered with several inches of water.

A new February precipitation record was foreseen in San Francisco as the mark Friday night went over the 5-inch notch.

SLAYING OF FOUR CAUSE OF UPRISING

of the victims of this morning's shootings, they wrote "Down With Galavis" on the walls of government buildings.

Placards, some with bloody hand prints on them, were hoisted, demanding punishment of those responsible for shooting into defenseless crowd.

The mob marched to Governor Galavis' home. It was met by a detachment of troops with drawn bayonets. But before the soldiers could act, the demonstrators set fire to the governor's automobile.

The infuriated mob then proceeded to a lumber yard owned by Galavis and fired it. En route, the demonstrators wrecked the home of Vincenzo Perez, former governor of Zulia State, who was replaced today by Nestor Perez.

Another mob of 1000 paraded carrying flags and pictures of Simon Bolivar, the great liberator, and singing liberty songs. Members of the patriotic party organized and led this popular movement.

INSURANCE STATEMENT

In hope of quieting the public, the government displaced Galavis and named General Elbio Mivell governor of the federal district.

Shortly after his appointment, General Mivell issued the following statement to the people:

"With the people of Caracas, I aspire also to liberty because through it I was close to the people in their hour of fever and danger. I confirm now as a certainty that we will contribute to make the republic where there is warmth for all and each of the Venezuelans without personal enmities and with our practices of the old regime, but with guarantees for all within the great Venezuelan homeland."

Manchukuo Is Apt To Be Scene Of War

SHANGHAI, Feb. 14.—UP.—There is no immediate danger of a Russo-Japanese war despite warlike preparations by the two nations and almost daily violence along the disputed Manchukuo border, informed Far Eastern authorities believe.

But, there is no lack of warlike talk, or of minor clashes that could be used as provocation on which to hang aggressive moves in the dispute Manchukuo-Mongolia area where Soviet and Japanese ambitions and influences overlap.

"All this noise is serving as an argument to transfer to Manchukuo 10 more (Japanese) divisions," the Soviet newspaper Izvestia said today. "If these excesses are planned to test the calmness of Soviet nerves, we will show that our nerves are in good order, and our hands too. We advise against such a test and showing the world the unpleasant sight of people who already have lost their heads."

Speaking for Japan in Peking, Major General Kenji Dohara, army intelligence chief and the Japanese Lawrence of Manchuria, said: "I hope there will be no war on the Mongol-Manchukuo border. But if the Mongols and Russians cross the border and invade Manchukuo, war may break out."

Foot sufferers, and there are many, will hail with joy the presence here today at the B. B. Shoe Store, 720 Macdonald avenue of a representative of Dr. Scholl.

Relief it is said, is assured by him for hurting corns, callouses, bunions, "athlete's feet", weak or fallen arches and any and every ail which befalls that important part of the body.

BARRYMORE BEERY STARRED IN FOX FILM

Two outstanding figures of the screen—Wallace Beery and Lionel Barrymore—divide honors in "Ah Wilderness," from the sensational play by Eugene O'Neill, opening at the Fox theater tomorrow.

In addition to this feature the Fox will also screen George O'Brien in his latest action romance, "Whispering Smith Speaks."

"Ah Wilderness" deals with a family in a small New England town, with dramatic developments centering in a boy's adventure in defiance when his girl throws him down. Eric Linden is the boy, and Barrymore appears as the father, gruff but understanding middle-aged editor of the town's newspaper. Berry plays Uncle Sid, lovable inept brother of Barrymore and Cecilia Parker, Aline MacMahon, Mickey Rooney, Helen Flint and Spring Byington are in the cast.

Eric Linden and Cecilia Parker are the high school boy and girl for whom the course of love runs anything but smoothly. Beside serious comedy interludes with Miss Parker of the enormous hair-bow, Linden has a scene with Helen Flint a wicked siren, which in its way is a classic. Linden remains out so late on this occasion that his father wastes little or no time to talk to him, seriously but diffidently, about women.

As the dancer defying young railroad worker who whispered by preference, but who could shout when he wanted to, George O'Brien returns to the screen in an action-filled story, "Whispering Smith Speaks," a 20th-Century-Fox hit.

The plot of the story revolves about the love that arises between O'Brien and Irene Ware, who manages an old dilapidated railway.

The climax of the picture shows the young adventure turns a whole railroad system upside-down and races a switch engine desperately for hundreds of miles, when his sweetheart is in danger.

Kenneth Thomson, Vic Potel, Spencer Charter, Maude Allen, William V. Wong and Frank Sheridan are others in this thrilling Frank Spearman story.

James Caskey and Pat O'Brien in "Colling Zero" plus Warren William and Dolores Del Rio in "The Widow From Monte Carlo" will screen at the Fox for the last times today.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The biggest government booty since the days of lush war contracts is making the mouths of the legal profession water all over the country.

It is the one billion dollars in AAA taxes which the meat packers, the textile manufacturers, and other big processors paid into the Treasury and which now may be subject to refund.

Ever since the Supreme Court's Louisiana rice millers' decision regarding processing taxes, this billion dollars has become the pot of gold at the end of the treasure hunt for hundreds of lawyers.

It is the topic of daily whispers in the lobby of the Mayflower. It is the subject of separate deals between processors and retailers to whom the tax was passed.

Textile manufacturers actually have started advertising for interested third parties to join them in the suits.

Meanwhile the Administration has been equally busy.

Every conceivable brand of legal formula that might protect the billion has been examined.

One formula which looked good at first was to let the Federal tax collector face the suits. They can be sued, whereas the government cannot be sued without its consent.

This idea actually got as far as the amount for which the tax collectors were bonded was looked up. It was only $17,000,000. But then it was discovered that the Federal Government was bound by law to be responsible for its tax collectors.

So this particular idea was abandoned. The Administration is still looking for another.

VICE-PRESIDENTIAL HUMOR

Friends of Cactus Jack Garner say the reason he has no enemies is that he has a sense of humor.

One day when Hankhead of Alabama was holding forth in the Senate, Garner was engaged in private conversation with two other members who stood beside his chair.

There was general confusion in the chamber. Finally Barkley, Kentucky demanded: "Mr. President, I ask for order."

Garner pounced with his gavel.

"The Senate will be in order!"

Then without cracking a smile, "The chair himself will also be in order."

CRYPTOLOGIST

Lyle T. Alverson, new executive director of the National Emergency Council started on his upward climb by "pounding" a telegraph key in his small home-town in Illinois.

When the U. S. entered the World War he enlisted in the navy, later was commissioned an ensign and assigned to the Naval Communications staff in the Capital.

There his skill as a code decipherer soon attracted official notice, and he joined Herbert O. Yardley, revealing secrets, created such a stir throughout the world.

Under Yardley in the State Department he learned all the tricks of code sending and unravelling. Vital war messages passed through his hands.

When Wilson went to the Paris Peace Conference, Alverson was a member of his staff. Another young man on that voyage was Franklin D. Roosevelt, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

In Park Alverson got the unique privilege not even enjoyed by Secretary of State Lansing—of knowing each day just what had happened in the secret sessions of the Big Three: Wilson, Clemenceau and Lloyd George.

Each night, in a locked room guarded by an armed Marine detail, Alverson transcribed a record of the day's deliberations as taken down by Leland Harrison, official reporter of the history-making talks.

To this day the record of those momentous conversations has not been published. Only three daily copies were made one for Wilson, Clemenceau and George.

HAPPY JAIL

From time to time word slips out from Justice Department that Federal prisoners have been removed from a local jail. The official explanation is always the same, namely that the institution "failed to meet required standards."

Behind this cryptic language is invariably a story of lax, and often worse, administrative conditions. Government prison inspectors in their unannounced visits to local jails encountered some extraordinary sights.

Recently several inspectors walked into a local southern jail where eight federal prisoners were being held. When they asked for the jailer, they were told he was "out." His wife, who was present, at first was unable to find the keys to the cells, but after a search finally located

AN ANCIENT Chinese repeating crossbow, part of the Otis arms collection at the Los Angeles Museum, is believed to be the forerunner of the present day machine gun. Its age is estimated at more than 300 years. A curious case, fitted with a narrow slot, capable of holding 20 arrows, fits on top of the crossbar proper. Each time an arrow is shot, another falls into its place, all ready to be fired.

Freighter Is Being Towed To Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 14—UP—The badly listing British freighter Treillick, accompanied by the Coast Guard cutter Oanadara, was nearing the entrance of the Columbia river tonight.

A radio report to the Treillick's local agent, J. J. Moore, and Co., said the vessel was making about nine knots, with a 40-degree list caused by a shift in her lumber cargo.

The sea was relatively calm and none of the 24 crew members was hurt when the storm struck the vessel 240 miles off the mouth of the Columbia river.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—Welfare Island is free of prisoners for the first time in 110 years. Inmates of the gloomy grey dungeon on the East River island have been moved to the new prison on Riker's Island, and the old city penitentiary itself will be demolished to make way for a park and hospital.

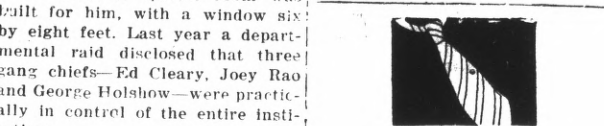

The Welfare Island prison was one of the oldest, most antiquated and most cordially hated in the world. More prisoners passed through its doors annually than at any other place on the globe, the number running to an average of 15,000. Its bucket system, had never been replaced by plumbing, its cells were no larger than closets, and the ventilation, light and heating were of the 19th century variety.

Entire history of the island's entire history for three weeks. A couple of years ago there was a gang battle in the warden's office itself. Boss Tweed was once confined here, when the island was still named Blackwell's. A special room was built for him, with a window six by eight feet. Last year a departmental raid disclosed that three gang chiefs—Ed Cleary, Joey Rao and George Holshov—were practically in control of the entire institution.

Strollers on the waterfront near the Queensborough bridge will at last be able to draw a clear breath.

DRAPES—The "Follies" has come home to roost again. The Ziegfeld show is still billed as a national institution "glorifying the American girl," but the present edition, interestingly enough, hasn't a single nude or even semi-nude chorine in the entire evening's proceedings.

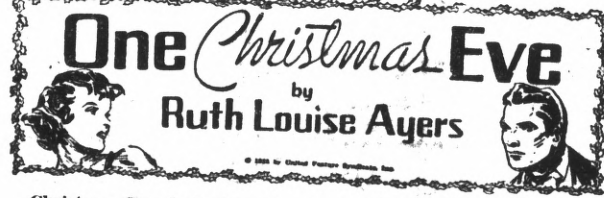

It's primarily a brilliant costume and scenic spectacle—(costuming is becoming truly an art these days)—with the starred antics of Fannie

One Christmas Eve

by Ruth Louise Ayers

Christmas Eve finds the residents of Houseboat Row, squallid holiday in various ways. Ann and Tom Hannigan watch fearfully over their little Peter, critically ill with pneumonia, while in another boat, old Katie Jarvis, whose son was sent to prison years before, seeks to drown her sorrows in whisky. Big Adam, evangelist, holds services in his houseboat. Mission, little knowing that his son Dan, lured by two crooks, has got into serious trouble and has sought shelter at Luke Conners' floating bar down the river. Luke's daughter Nightingale, expecting a visit from the rich and aristocratic Vincent Locke, whom she loves, tells her father he must turn Dan out. As the Mission services end, she is found outside the chapel, waiting to speak to Joe Jarvis, old Katie's husband.

"I didn't want them," Big Adam interrupted. "It was the Lord that wanted them."

"Yeah, that's what I meant. You had them for the Lord."

Joe saw Dora Adam and the kids move closer. He thought, "I'll have to come right out with it or it'll be too late."

"What I wanted to ask you," he said hastily, "was something else. He twisted his hat nervously. "It's about Katie. You know, we didn't get to her tonight after all."

But one of the younger Adams children had now clutched the evangelist's hand. Big Adam looked down at the child, and then lifted her into his arms.

Defeated, Joe backed away, murmured, "Good night," and dejectedly went out.

HE WAS startled when Nightingale's gaze emerged from the shadows.

"What you doing here, Nightingale?" he said uncertainly.

"Quick!" she whispered, knowing that Big Adam would be coming out any minute. Already lights in the chapel were being turned off. "Joe, you've got to do me a favor. Here is an important message. I want you to take it to the Rocke house. Go to the back door and get one of the servants to call Vincent Rocke. Don't give this note to anyone except him—you understand? No one except Vincent Rocke!"

Joe's weak eyes blinked at her in mild surprise. But he made no move to accept the note.

"Here's money for cab fare," she continued. "You won't have to walk and can be back in half an hour."

She pressed a bill into his hand. "I dunno," Joe faltered.

"Joe," the girl pleaded. "This means much to me—you can't refuse! Please, Joe!"

"All right," he said finally, shuffling unsteadily. "I guess it'll be all right for me to go."

Nightingale handed him the note and sped away.

JOE waited until she was out of sight, then turned toward his own home. It would do no harm, he thought, to stop by just to tell Katie he had an errand to do before he'd be home. It would give him a chance, too, to see if she had been doing any drinking.

But Nightingale had turned back the message would have to be relayed. It was better to send a note by Joe Jarvis. She could trust him.

But when the congregation was emptied out of the chapel, Joe was not among them. Nightingale, teeth clenched, thought, "Why doesn't he get out of there?"

THE reason was that Joe had cornered Big Adam again—cornered him even though Big Adam's wife and children hovered nearby. Joe had wanted to ask the prayers for Katie after the prayers for the Hannigan boy, but there hadn't been a chance.

Now, he spoke haltingly, "That was a wonderful sermon you gave us tonight. Seems like you had 'em all where you wanted—"

He little knew that he should have hurried back home, little knew what Katie was up to.

He thought warmly of how much the Lord did for his followers. He calculated the distance to the Rocke house. It wasn't a long walk. He could make it, spy as he was, in less than half an hour. "There'll be no sense to taking a cab," he decided. "I'll save the money for Big Adam's chapel, and walk up the hill."

He hurried back home, little knew what Katie was up to.

He hurried back home, little knew what Katie was up to.

He hurried back home, little knew what Katie was up to.

He hurried back home, little knew what Katie was up to.

He hurried back home, little knew what Katie was up to.

He hurried back home, little knew what Katie was up to.

Mother Is Cast Aside By Her Son

SAN JOSE, Feb. 11.—UP—Twelve-year-old Peter Contas today ignored the pleading of his mother, Mrs. Irene Contas of New York, and elected to live with the foster-parents with whom she placed him during the depression.

Superior Judge J. N. McMahon, ruling on a habeas corpus petition in which Mrs. Contas sought custody of the boy, upheld his choice and ordered that he remain with Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Stokesberry, of Los Gatos.

The judge ignored questions of paternity raised in the case, holding that Peter's welfare was the only real issue at stake and that he would be happiest with the Stokesberrys.

Mrs. Contas had testified that she had convinced Stokesberry he was the child's father simply by "laying it on pretty strong" when she wrote letters asking that he take care of the boy during the depression. Stokesberry answered that he was Peter's true father.

Today's Safe Driving Hint

By The National Safety Council

"WEAVING"

Weaving in and out of traffic is a dangerous practice, not only to the driver doing it but also to other drivers on the highway.

There is little to be gained by it, and everything to be lost. The amount of time saved in 20 miles of driving in this unsafe manner is almost negligible and certainly is not worth the risk.

For every yard of headway made by the "weaving" driver, scores of other drivers are thrown into confusion and the orderly progress of traffic is disturbed and delayed. Moving the greatest number of vehicles on a highway at the highest safe speed requires order.

The weaving driver is a menace, both to himself and to others.

Stay in line—the orderly—respect the rights of others.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH
By Dr. FRANK MCCOY
AUTHOR OF "THE FAST WAY TO HEALTH"

Many people are actually starved for protective vitamins during the winter months when sunshine is scarce. You can consider that vitamins are a form of health insurance. When you eat them, you protect yourself against various diseases. Vitamins are necessary in the diet, and experiments have shown which foods contain the greatest amounts of them. Here is a list of the different vitamins which have been discovered and some information about them:

VITAMIN A: Those who have colds and are run-down probably need more Vitamin A. It is thought that Vitamin A enables you to resist certain infections of the eyes, sinuses, and ears. Without it your resistance to infections of the skin and mucous membranes is lessened. This vitamin is stored in the body and is especially needed by growing children. It is found in raw milk, cream, evaporated milk, butter, cheese, egg yolk, raw carrots, cod liver oil, bananas, yellow turnips, yellow corn, Hubbard squash, oranges, prunes, green peas, lettuce, canned and fresh tomatoes, sweet potatoes. All of the yellow and green vegetables are good sources.

VITAMIN B: This vitamin is not stored very long in the body. Consequently, some of the foods containing it should be eaten regularly. It is needed for a good appetite. It is vital to health at all ages. This vitamin has been found to consist of two vitamins which are named B1, or P, and B2, or G. Vitamin B1 is destroyed by heat. B2 is relatively unaffected by heat. B1 prevents the disease beriberi in humans. A lack of it may bring on irritability and nervousness. B2 is a vitamin which prevents pellagra. These vitamins are contained in whole grain cereals, milk, meat, green leafy vegetables, egg yolks, asparagus, dried lima beans, whole wheat bread, buttermilk, raw cabbage, carrots, canned green corn, eggplant, fresh ham, lentils, oatmeal, oranges, parsnips, baked Irish potatoes, baked sweet potatoes, green peas, canned tomatoes, turnips, walnuts, and yeast.

VITAMIN C: This vitamin is not stored in the body, consequently it is needed by everyone every day. Its use prevents scurvy and is essential to healthy gums. Nearly every one with pyorrhea is not getting enough Vitamin C. This vitamin is destroyed by too much cooking. A lack of it is thought to predispose to decay of the teeth. It is found in oranges, lemons, grapefruit, raw apples, bananas, raw cabbage, canned pineapple, tomatoes, peaches, raspberries, strawberries, peas, dried peaches, spinach, raw leafy vegetables, raw carrots, potatoes boiled not over fifteen minutes, turnips.

VITAMIN D: The sunshine vitamin is stored in the body only a short time. It prevents rickets, and builds bone and teeth by enabling the body to use calcium and phosphorus. Children and nursing mothers especially need Vitamin D. Vitamin D is found in the foods containing Vitamin A, which have been grown in or exposed to the sunlight. The effect of this vitamin is also obtained by using sunbaths. You can obtain certain cereals or foods which are called "Irradiated," meaning especially treated to produce this vitamin. Cod liver oil is an excellent source of this vitamin.

VITAMIN E: The absence of this vitamin causes sterility. A full list of foods containing it is not known, although it is present in vegetables, oils, meat, lettuce and wheat germ. It is stored in the body to some extent.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Purpose of Menus)
Question: Olive A. H. writes: "Am writing to find out if the menus which you publish are meant for one who is reducing or are they meant to bring about a gain in weight? Could the average person follow them? How is health best prepared?"

Answer: The menus are intended as a guide for the average person who wishes to follow a correctly balanced diet. The regimen is neither for reducing or gaining weight, but rather for the normalizing of the weight of the average individual. Also, these menus are not meant for those requiring special diets. Meals must be made by slicing a loaf of white bread into slices one-fourth of an inch thick. The crust is removed before slicing and the slices are allowed to dry at least over night, after which they are toasted in the oven until each slice is a golden brown all the way through. Try it, as I am sure you will enjoy the flavor.

(Hang Nails)
Question: Jean T. asks: "I'm greatly troubled with hang nails. They form mostly on the thumb and I would like to know how to prevent them."

Answer: Use rubber gloves when putting the hands in hot water; also keep the cuticle around the nails trimmed, if necessary. You can soften the cuticle and help prevent hang nails if you will use a hand lotion, olive oil, or the commercial cuticle cream, every night before retiring.

Baked Ground Beets
Question: Mrs. Henry L. says: "Will surely appreciate it if you will tell me how to bake ground beets."

Answer: Select small tender beets and scrub thoroughly with a vegetable brush. Without peeling, cut into small pieces and fry through a food chopper. Place in a dry, flat pan to a depth of two inches and bake tightly covered for 15 minutes. Remove cover and place under the broiler flame until browned on top. Serve with butter.

Many Chronic Patients Are Discouraged When Doctors Do Nothing Definite

By CLAUDE NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

I WROTE yesterday concerning the chronic sufferers and our attitude toward them. We owe it to them to give encouragement and to guide our words and actions so as not to discourage them. If you have no cheering and helpful advice to give, do not offer any. Better be silent than to say the wrong thing. Do something to help, and keep on trying. If occasionally our efforts to help do more harm than good, if we have used our best judgment, we must not discourage ourselves.

I have a letter from Mrs. E. S. who is a chronic sufferer, but is making greater efforts to help herself. I have a letter from a woman who is 36 years old, has a nice family, and has a very well built body. She commenced to feel pain and dragging on the right side of her abdomen.

The trouble became progressively worse and she evidently thought she had appendicitis, because she consulted a surgeon. On examination he found a floating kidney. In women it is quite common to find the right kidney more or less freely movable, causing dragging and pain.

An X-ray disclosed that the ureter was kinked. The ureter is the tube extending from the pelvis of the kidney to the bladder. It is 15 to 18 inches in length and can be twisted easily, particularly when the kidney is freely movable.

May Shut Off Completely

The kink may be only partial, or a complete shutting off of a part or all now, just like your garden hose kinks. If the kink is complete and shuts off all passage of water, something must be done at once.

If only partial, the common treatment is to place the patient in bed with the head lower than the feet. This is done in the hope that the kidney, falling back into its hammock, may straighten out the kink. Time and patience are required to accomplish this.

When the kink causes complete obstruction it is sometimes necessary to straighten it out by an operative procedure; the most simple method is to pass a catheter into the lower end of the ureter from the bladder and by forcing a stream of water or by forcing a tube into the tube relieve the obstruction. This is not always safe.

It is practically impossible to thoroughly sterilize the urinary bladder and there is danger of carrying infection up into the ureter. This operation was done in this case, and due to no fault of the surgeon, infection took place.

Mrs. S. refers to this as an acid condition, with severe back pain, straining and swelling. She herself found that rest in bed gave her the most relief. The nurse and her doctor told her anything she did would not harm her. The condition becomes better when she rests and returns when she is on her feet or riding. Nothing has been done to correct the floating kidney.

Rest Is Helpful

The operation of anchoring a loose kidney is not as satisfactory as we would wish. Complete rest in bed with the head low may replace it. This, with a kidney pad and belt, is often very helpful.

She has been told the only thing for her to do is to gain weight and strength, but they have given no advice as to how to accomplish this. No advice as to diet, tonics or aids to gain weight.

Six years previous to this experience Mrs. S. suffered from recurring attacks of purpura hemorrhagica (a disease of the blood and blood vessels which causes bleeding into the skin). The removal of some infected teeth aided this trouble, but it is evident that her general physical condition is far below par. Yet, she is dismissed with the advice to gain weight.

She is frankly discouraged, and with reason. She will do better in the hands of a general practitioner who can advise her how best to eat, drink and rest. Medicines are needed. Much can be done to overcome kidney and bladder infection by the use of antiseptic medication by the mouth or blood stream.

This woman is sick and miserable. All this is made less bearable by doing nothing. I cannot prescribe for this woman, but I can say to her physician and to her husband if he does nothing, find another who will.

Dr. Chrisman offers readers the privilege of addressing questions to him on this column. He will answer questions of general interest in his regular daily column.

Profiles For Today

Mrs. MacDowell Works Hard at 80

By TALBOT LAKE

MANY cities of size and not a few smaller communities are familiar with the MacDowell clubs organized in the early part of the century after the American composer had died. The idea was to keep his music alive as the most representative work of an American who was taken seriously by Europeans.

Mrs. Edward MacDowell, the widow, was the leader in this cause, and she is frank to admit her work is never done. Think of it! Eighty years old, she has just completed a concert tour in which she gave fourteen recitals of her husband's music in twenty-eight days. Such a program would have any artist on the ropes, but Mrs. MacDowell goes on, although she does not know how she does it.

The purpose of the tour was to raise money to pay this year's deficit of the MacDowell artists' colony in Peterborough, N. H., a project she has now carried on for twenty-eight years. This colony is probably the most famous of its kind in the country. Celebrities galore have stayed there for periods of six to eight weeks.

Edward Arlington Robinson, America's No. 1 poet, has spent twenty-four summers there, and has turned out three Pulitzer prize poems. While at the colony Thornton Wilder wrote "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" and DuBose Heyward turned out "Porgy." Writers like Willa Cather, composers like Aaron Copland, and a host of others in artistic pursuits go there to make the creative urge sprout.

Mrs. MacDowell raised an endowment fund for the colony some years ago and never had a deficit until comparatively recently after she had given up active work. The relatively small $5,000 deficit each year is her greatest worry.

For New England upbringing (the family has lived in the same New London, Conn., homestead for eight generations) accounts for her strong will and perseverance, which have made the colony success.

Added Flavor
Diced apple in combination with chopped celery, or in place of celery, will give salad a tasty flavor.

Eye Compress Good Method To End Lines

By JACQUELINE HUNT

KEEPING the face free from fine, tired lines is a difficult job for the business woman who must appear fresh and lovely at all times. The regular use of compresses for the eyes and a rich cream will prevent the strain and worries of a hectic day from leaving lines etched around your mouth and particularly your eyes.

When you are tired the eyes show it immediately. The nerve centers surrounding them are so sensitive that they respond to every emotion and reveal the nervous strain, no matter how gaily you can force a smile. Treat these tiny lines by releasing the strained muscles and nerves every day so you can prevent them from developing into permanent wrinkles.

Here is a treatment that will tone and nourish the delicate tissues around the eyes, and will rest eyes tired from close work like typing, sewing, or reading.

Make the eye compresses—a nightly habit if you lead a tense, busy life. Make them with a strong boric acid solution or buy little eye compresses made of fragrant herbs. Use pieces of sterile gauze cut into 18-inch strips.

about 9 inches wide. Make up a number of these at a time. Soak a 3-inch pad of cotton in the boric solution, then lay them on a towel and let them dry. In the middle of each piece of gauze, lay two of these dry pads about two inches apart. Fold the gauze over each side and then make one twist in the middle between the pads of cotton to prevent slipping.

Use these little pads at night after you have cleansed your skin thoroughly and applied a rich, nourishing cream—at least around your eyes. With your fingertips, gently place the tips of the fingers on the upper lids near the bridge of the nose and drawing them outward to the ends of the eyes. Bring the fingers inward under the eyes to the nose. Exercise the eyes about twenty times, with the excess oil and adjust eye pads moistened in warm water.

Let down and relax with the warm, moist pads over your eyes. Then, most pads over your eyes. Use the pads of gauze pinned or tucked behind the ears. Rest for at least fifteen minutes; then remove the pads and bathe your eyes with cold boric acid solution. Use the white of an egg, if available, about your eyes as a real definite. Cut small strips of gauze and wet them in slightly soapy water. Begin at the inner corner of the eye, and work downward and outward, then upward and smooth the gauze upward, holding in place until it has dried sufficiently to stay there. Let the gauze dry completely and remain for ten or fifteen minutes. Keep the sponge off with tepid water. This treatment daily will keep the eye areas youthful and firm.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I would like to fill in my hollow chest and at the same time reduce my plump hips and thighs. Is this possible? If so, please send me some good exercises for the purpose. Will massage help?"—Betty.

First check up on your weight and see if you should gain or lose. Your hollow chest may be due to poor posture, and a few exercises using the arms and shoulders might help the condition. Here is a good one for the purpose: Raise the arms sideways to shoulder level, turning the palms down. Keep the elbows stiff and make a complete circle inward with the right arm, swinging it down, across the front of the body, up and back to the original position. Do the same with left arm. Repeat, alternating right and left, ten times. Squatting exercises and rolling exercises taken while lying on the floor will help eliminate that roll of flesh around the hips.

QUESTION: "What can I do to eliminate 'blind' blackheads and pimples? These form under my skin and I cannot remove them without making sore spots that sometimes become infected."—Gracie.

The condition you mention must be treated carefully. First of all cleanse your skin with soap and water and a complexion brush to keep it stimulated and the pores clear of deposits. The regular scrubbing will help soften the skin over the clogged-up pores so you can remove them more easily. The stubborn ones must be opened with a sterilized needle, the contents extracted by pressing gently and then the spots touched with an antiseptic. Use a real cream foundation to prevent powder and other foreign material from becoming imbedded in the pores.

Marlene Goes Motoring

Marlene Dietrich, film actress, seen wearing the modern version of yesterday's "Duster." The coat is of beige wool, trimmed in bands of navy colored pigskin, which are matched by a wide belt, gloves and a chic bag, creating a motoring outfit. Instead of a wide sailor collar, a wide collar of beige felt, applied in pigskin, and shrouded in a misty chiffon veil which protects the hair and complexion.

Accessories Brighten Up Bad Weather Gives Time To Catch Up With Baking

By IRENE VAIL

NEW YORK—When your winter costume needs seasoning how about adding accessories in a bright paprika or one of the lively copper tones that have been widely subscribed to for anything under the accessory banner? Remembering the success of Dubonnet, those who make fashions have been concerned with finding something to make its place. In copper they believe they have found it. For even the copper brightens to burnt orange or any member of the capucine or nasturtium family, while for sports it also has a wide range. The French have a name for it, or for a color which is in the rust range, a new neighbor. This new color is called, and it is a gay tanish brown, rich enough to make you long for such gadgets as bags, gloves, and shoes. Rose Debut has a new color, too, a glowing paprika.

Novelty buttons of various kinds will be used and are first aids to disguise, which reminds me to mention belts, as well as buttons, are important enough to cable from Paris. Here's an example—some Chinese influence is discernible in accessories apparent, principally in lacquered buttons or imitations of carved jade, or occasional Chinese embroideries.

Count piping as one of the benefits of Chinese influence on fashion. Gay green on black or navy is smart, and the use of prints as piping is especially attractive—bright colorful prints or dotted ones. Braids that covers side seams, gives interest to hemlines of jackets and skirts, solid bands of color at hemlines of printed dresses, rolls at hemlines of dinner and evening gowns. Laced and whipped hemlines are a distinct branch (Gaulois) of this family.

The fabric story of the moment is an intensely interesting, if overdone. Paradoxical as it sounds, it is also sometimes dull, by which I mean the fabrics themselves are sometimes so.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "Please explain in the Modes and Manners column the correct way for a man to cut-in on a dancing couple. Also, may a man who has had to relinquish his partner to a chap who cut-in with her back again by using the same system? I am somewhat hazy as to the etiquette of this practice at dances."—H. J. K.

ANSWER: Cutting-in is all right, providing it is not overdone. When abused it becomes discourteous. To cut-in on a pair, a man taps the fellow dancing. No matter how well he knows him, he taps him lightly on the shoulder. A fellow who has been deprived of his partner may not cut-in on the fellow who cut him out, but is free to cut-in on the third man.

MODERN WOMEN

Lonely Persons Who Seek Companionship by Mail Are Simply Looking for Trouble

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

THIS column has recently received several letters from lonely men and women who seem to infer that through them they can be put in touch with suitable companions. Sorry, but it isn't practical, no matter what the circumstances or how sympathetic I may feel toward the plight of those driven to seek companionship through such impersonal paths. Not even housekeepers may be procured through me, not to mention husbands, wives, or understanding friends.

You and Your Child

Getting Too Many Gifts Spoils Child

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

MOTHER went to answer the doorbell. "Stephen," she called from the hall, "Aunt Dora is here. Come and say hello." The boy looked up lazily from his play.

The idea of getting up to say hello to Aunt Dora filled him with boredom. He sees her practically every day. He likes her, but all that, gaining an insight into human nature than is provided by office close-ups. Company means a dozen other things he could not realize.

"Stephen! Come quick!" Stephen picked up his ears this time at the note of excitement in mother's voice. "Aunt Dora has brought you something." The boy could not get to them fast enough. He jumped to his feet exclaiming, "Where?" and turned around so quickly he collided with a floor lamp and almost knocked it down.

"Hello, Aunt Dora," he greeted broadly, his eyes glued to the package in her hand. "What did you bring?" "Just something I picked up at a sale downtown. Meanwhile Stephen had ripped open the package. He pulled out a pair of pajamas. He evidently was disappointed with the gift. "Oh, pajamas," he said limply. "Aren't you going to thank Aunt Dora?" his mother prompted. "Of course," he answered with annoyance, adding, "Thank you, Aunt Dora," very quietly.

Some children are grateful for any small gift they may get. But Stephen is an example of a child who has been spoiled by receiving too many gifts. Nearly everyone brings him something. He looks to see whether they are carrying a package.

When a child becomes selfish and calculating to this extent, the parents are to blame for not discouraging the bringing of gifts. They fool themselves that it gives their friends pleasure always to remember their child. For if the guests get the habit, it is generally because they have observed how it flatters the parents. Parents should consider the effect upon the child.

SMOOTH ENSEMBLE

After all, the great trouble with many marriages is that the place while both parties are living in an atmosphere of their own making, a bemused state in which everything looks softly roseate and which is about as near the real workaday atmosphere as night is to day. When a man and a girl can manage to surround the commonplace events with an aura of their own making, that's something. Failing that, they can manage to fall in love in broad daylight and in full pursuit of their duties, there is most certainly a very strong attraction between them, and a better chance for making a go of marriage than there is when they are in the clouds and have met each other in a make-believe world.

True, though it still is, that no two people can ever really know one another until they have lived together, working side-by-side for an eight-hour day is a pretty good test of whether the attraction is going to be a boom or a bore. Even supposing there was such a love, as indeed there might be, of love at first sight, it does not at all follow such a love would make for comfortable daily contact.

Love has been known to be too disturbing to make for happiness. As thorough a knowledge as it is possible to have of the man or woman one marries is the best assurance of a successful marriage.

A correspondence course of courtship means worse than nothing and gets one nowhere but in trouble.

Mrs. Martin will be glad to answer in this column questions of general interest. Mrs. Martin cannot reply individually to every correspondent. Names will not be published. Address her care of this paper.

Did you know that sweet potatoes and apples will not turn black if placed in salt water immediately after peeling?

Save whole left-over potatoes for potato salad. If your family does not care for potato salad, hash brown or cream them for the next meal.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a dose of salts, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels a mere movement down 1 eye at the time. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out 2000 pounds of bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a flat, bad taste and your breath is foul. You often wake out at 4 o'clock. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARBOL LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get things moving. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out 2000 pounds of bile into your bowels daily.

Don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carbol Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carbol Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of cheap imitations. $1.00 a box. M. G.

ties. He told me he wanted to get all the credit for building the plane and when newspapers began to favor others, he decided to prevent the flight."

Kessler said he suspected something Sunday night after the second attempt threw the Rocket 100 feet from the catapult. The following day, he said, his men at Greenwood Lake tore open the ship for complete overhauling and discovered the sabotage.

They found the tubes of the Rocket twisted in such a way that the fuels should have poured into the combustion chamber simultaneously, creating one of the most powerful explosives known. The sudden firing of this mixture might easily have blasted a hole into the 30-inch ice on Greenwood Lake, endangering hundreds close by, Kessler said.

Willy Ley, German Rocket inventor, lighted the outlet pipe to the Rocket. Dressed in an asbestos suit, he was barely three feet away when he touched the pipe with a torch. Had the liquid oxygen caught fire, Ley would have caught the full effect of the explosion. Five other workmen were near at the time.

Kessler said suspicion immediately attached to the mechanic. Tuesday, workers at Greenwood Lake received an anonymous warning from New York to keep away from the Rocket, that it would explode if fired again. Kessler finally located the mechanic and called him into his office.

"I told him he was liable to arrest," Kessler said. "He broke down and said he wanted only to 'get even' for the lack of publicity he thought he deserved."

"I said he would not be bothered if he stayed away from Greenwood Lake, until after we complete our experiments. He agreed and is now staying somewhere in New York."

Kessler said necessary repairs would delay the next attempt to fly 6000 feet or more to Hewitt, N. J., for at least another two weeks.

"Pure Fascism" Is Charged Made By H. Hoover

SEATTLE, Feb. 14—UP—The Roosevelt Administration has used "pure Fascism" in attempting to solve unemployment in the United States, former President Herbert Hoover charged today, during a brief visit to Seattle.

He added that the problem remained "totally unsolved." The Administration has introduced "a form of personal government" as a substitute for a government of laws, said the former president. "The NRA was a perfect parallel with the set-up in Fascist Italy."

Mr. Hoover answered most questions of reporters with "I covered that in a recent speech." He left on the late afternoon train for Palo Alto, Cal., after conferring with state Republican leaders at a luncheon.

Injured Boy Is Getting Better

MARTINEZ, Feb. 14—While some improvement was reported today, the condition of Richard Boyd, 19, of Martinez, injured in an automobile accident Wednesday night, was still considered critical this afternoon.

The youth, son of Deputy Tax Collector and Mrs. S. S. Boyd, is still unconscious from a skull fracture he suffered when an automobile he occupied skidded and overturned on the Pacheco-Concord highway.

Boyd and two companions, Francis Digardi, 20, and Gilman Shelly, 19, were en route to a DeMolay meeting at Concord. Digardi and Shelly were not injured seriously.

The swish caused me to take a glance at the Barney Oldfield who apparently thought he was on a race course. I was given a dirty look and heard some words, the repetition of which would bar the issue from the mails. Now I had entered the intersection when the car under discussion was nearly a block away and in a foolish moment considered that I had the right of way, at least freedom from being run down. It did not take me long from the narrowness of my escape to conclude that I was all wet, both literally and figuratively.

It was not so many days ago that the fire engines came tearing along when I chanced to be on Macdonald. When an alarm sounds those boys of the fire department go places and in a hurry. The presumption is that autos, in such cases, are to drive to the side of the street and give them traffic freedom. Did one driver do so? The answer is no. They all went blithely on their way. Why should they turn out?

Despite the large number of drivers who have paralyzed left arms and are unable to give signals; regardless of the jaywalkers and other menaces; ignoring the fact that the speed laws on Macdonald and other streets are being daily violated, I am forced to the conclusion that the gospel of safe driving being preached by the safety traffic council is having some effect, or that we as a city have a rabbit's foot in our pocket.

Snow, Quakes Dust Storms Scourge Nation

rail traffic crawled and in many places stopped. Three persons were killed in New York City where 23,000 men tried to clear streets already covered with ice layers from previous storms.

In Long Island Sound, an oil tanker flew distress signals, but rescue boats could not get close enough to identify her.

Eleven South Dakota towns, snow-bound for days, waited for fuel and food by air. The forecast in that section was for clearing weather and airplanes prepared to take off from Rapid City.

MONTANA SHAKEN

Earth shocks occurred in Helena and Butte, Mont., towns that already were fighting snowdrifts and temperatures of 25 below zero. No damage was reported immediately from the earthquakes, but they were the most severe in that section since the shocks last Thanksgiving Day.

The few sections of the country that escaped snow and sleet encountered other difficulties. The high wind raised dust storms in Colorado and the Panhandle of Texas and Oklahoma. Farmers hoped for rain, fearing crops would be blown away soon unless moisture arrived. Some of the dust was carried as far as Michigan. In Kalamazoo the snow was covered with a yellow layer of soil.

TOWN CLOSED DOWN

Mayor Leonard Pacheco of Mazatlan, ordered a virtual cessation of business to conserve the town's coal supply. School, business houses and stores, with the exception of those selling food, were told to shut down.

EUROPE HARD HIT

LONDON, Feb. 14—UP—Deaths caused by violent winter gales and sub-zero weather in Central and Eastern Europe undoubtedly totaled more than 200 tonight. In addition, more than 1000 persons were known to have been injured seriously in accidents caused by the storm.

It was impossible to obtain accurate figures as communication with numerous rural districts was disrupted.

Eastern Europe, the Danube valley and the Balkans and Greece were hardest hit by the almost unprecedented storms.

The greatest single disaster occurred today in Bulgaria when 15 persons were killed in a train collision caused by snow and wind damaging signals.

Blood Transfusion

Spanish Heir Suffers With Blood Curse

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 14—UP—The Count of Covadonga, former Prince of Asturias and heir to the Spanish throne, who was thought to have escaped death from hemophilia, dread blood disease, through use of a new type of blood transfusion, took a turn for the worse tonight.

Only a few days ago his two Cuban doctors announced that he had reacted favorably to the transfusion of blood from persons whose spleen had been removed.

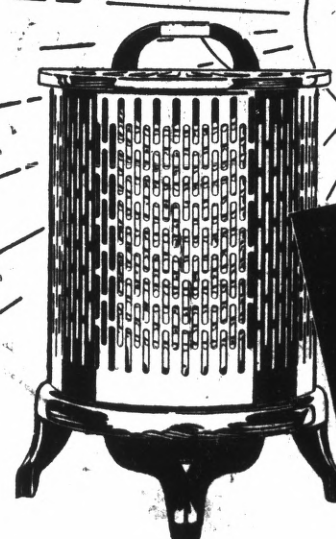

It was learned the countess, former Edelmira Sampedro, former Cuban commoner for whom he renounced his royal rights, was extremely worried by the sudden adverse change in his condition.
